January 2023

Issue 64

INSIDE

This month our featured and cover artist is our Chairman Martin Webster revealing his enthusiasm for art .

Plus details about our Springtime Exhibition at Gallery 4

Notes from the Editor

Welcome to this the first of 2023 SGA Newsletters. With plans for the Springtime Exhibition in place the Exhibitions Team have been beavering away with the detail. The Exhibitions team are a great bunch and indeed put a lot of effort into the organisation. I am not sure whether we all appreciate what goes on behind the scenes in organising things. Forms, posters, bookings and much more takes a lot of time and effort though all is done with good humour and commitment by the whole team.

This year for the first time we are putting our Exhibition Application form and conditions on the website to read download and apply. This should make thing easier for everyone including the team in curating the Exhibition. Just go to www.salisburygroupofartists.co.uk/springex and you will be taken to the right page to apply. If you need a hard copy of the form just email me and I will send one through. (Alternatively if you need a form posted leave a message on my phone – 07584 778151 )

Do not forget to help us we have an application cut off date as 20th February 2023!!!!

In looking at ways to get more visitors we are offering a free draw to win one of our artworks to the value of £150. The conditions are simple as can be seen and we do hope it will tempt more people to attend. Do tell friends and family about the exhibition!

Best wishes,

Terry newsletter@salisburygroupofartists.com

Featured Artist of the Month

SGA Chairman Martin Webster

Every painting is a voyage into a sacred harbour” – Giotto di Bondone

I have reached that age when you spend quite a bit of time reviewing what went on in the past, not least in your own life. So being asked to do the “Artist of the Month’ has given me opportunity to actually write down some of the thoughts and conclusions I have, particularly in respect to Art – but its probably true that this applies to all of my life.

It wasn’t until my early twenties that I realised that a consistent vision that kept cropping up was probably one of my earliest recollections. I am looking up at the sky and sun, through branches. I note the reflections and shadows that fall on my vision, there is a wonderful sense in me of well being, being truly alive and also a closeness to God.

It was my mum who pointed out to me that when very young she would put me in the pram and push me to the end of the garden (we had one of those long but thin urban gardens with lots of fruit trees in). There I would stay for hours perfectly content!

I guess if I leap forward to now, my painting now is always about trying to capture some aspect of these earliest visions. This gives me great joy and thankfulness.

I now also recognise that from this earliest point and through all that followed my great interest and strength has been in seeing patterns in all things.

Early on, I loved Maths and Physics (English was my struggle point) ending up studying Physics for my degree at Nottingham. Although I thought about following this area for future work I also felt a call to work with people and communities, which led to Ordination in the Church of England.

At this time, I wasn't doing any art at all but I guess I was pouring my creative bent into creating authentic and uplifting worship, and helping people to realise their potential as a human being.

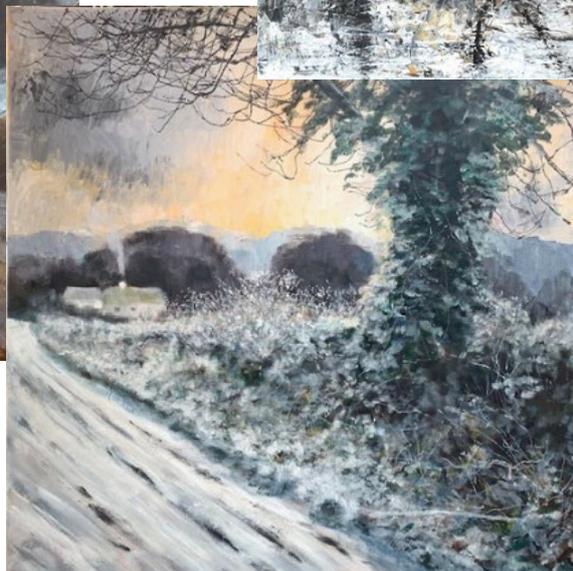

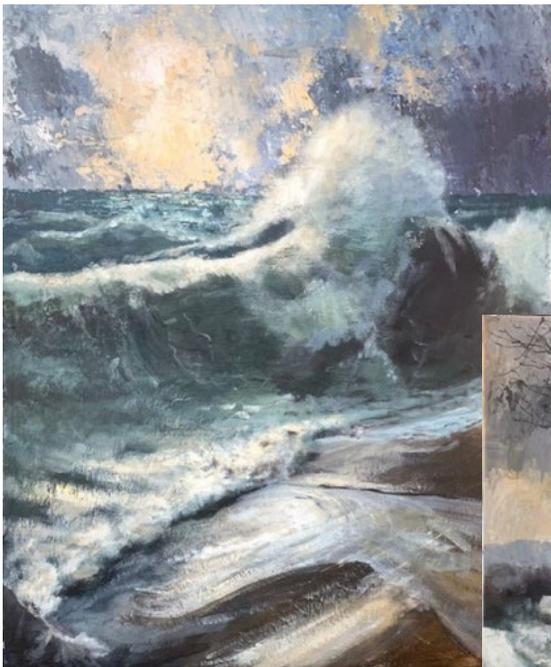

In the mid 80's I was appointed to a parish called Nazeing, on the western edge of Essex. A very standard sized semi-rural commuter village. In the congregation were two full time artists as well as a number of art teachers and part time artists. All of these started to work on me to try painting.

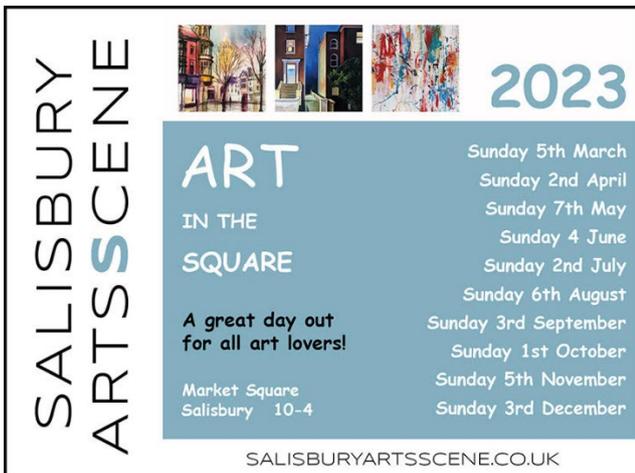

I am especially grateful to Muriel Thurgood, who took me under her wing. She showed me how to use four colours of oils, a small brush and kitchen paper on a small piece of melamine. The first picture I did blew me away and I was hooked! It was only a 3x4 inch size but it meant it kept the variables to a minimum and you could always wipe it out and start again.

Since then of course I have expanded and tried different mediums, till alighting upon Acrylic on Canvas. When I was working, I only had a short time to paint, and so acrylic was by far the easiest to pick up and put down. With acrylic nowadays you can do everything that oils can do.

Since retiring some six years ago, I have made it an ambition to try and become the best painter I can be. Although I feel I have made great progress, I am not there yet!

Along the way, my wife Vicky and our family have been a huge encouragement to me as well as the marvellous Salisbury Group of Artists. You will see from the accompanying photos, that landscapes and seascapes along with the odd still life are my bread and butter painting. Nonetheless, every time I pick up the brushes or the palette knife – it feels like an adventure into a sacred harbour.

SGA Art Workshops for 2023

Saturday January 28th - By popular request Karen Welsh returns for;

Abstracting The Landscape- using Acrylics.

This workshop is full with a substantial waiting list so we have asked Karen to return for a second workshop in October, date to be confirmed. Report on this workshop to follow next month.

There are still places available on the following workshops. Book early to avoid disappointment!

Saturday February 25th - Alta Edwards.

www.altaedwardsart.com

Alta came to Great Britain from South Africa in 2016 and is well known for her bold, colourful and dramatic work on canvas. She teaches art classes at Nether Wallop, Broughton and Luggershall.

The stunning display of her students work attracted my attention at Broughton Hall during last Summer's Hampshire Open Studios. Broughton Hall is the largest venue on the HOS circuit and 'home' to about 45 artists. Well worth a visit next HOS!!

Alta will be leading; Painting loose in acrylic paints and inks.

Layering up from thin to thick. Using acrylic inks for your under-painting. Alta will be using palette knives and introducing found objects. She will work on landscapes and florals.

Saturday 25th March- Terry Kemp

Getting Creative with Clay

workshop. This is rescheduled from September. Hurry to book as 6 people are already booked on this workshop (from September). No previous pottery experience necessary!

A Clay Workshop sculpting, building and throwing a pot or two on a powered potters wheel.

Using self drying clay everyone will have the opportunity during the workshop to enjoy the delights and creative opportunities of clay.

This is your opportunity to be a 'Grayson Perry' or 'Bernard Leach' for one day. Guaranteed creative enjoyment!

Saturday 22nd April- Helen Southwell

Create and make fused Glass - Taster session.

(These will be half-day sessions, morning or afternoon. 10am and 1pm).
